FOR DELEGATE TO CONGRESS,

HIRAM S. STEVENS

GAINING GROUND.

In everything that pertains to the prosperity of a people Arizona is fast gaining ground. The doubts, fears and perplexities that for so many years hung over us like a pall, in consequence of the depredations of the hostile Indians, have nearly all passed away. Only a few renegade savages remain at large to endanger the lives of isolated parties in remote districts, and those few are being fast hunted down and will soon cease to exist.

With the feeling of the general security of life and property new life has been infused into everything that belongs to development and progress, and the hearts of the people beat high with hope. And this is not an unfounded hope; it is not a mere chimerical wishing, but it is a hope founded upon tangible assurance of the unbounded prosperity that awaits this Territory in the near future. And it is hardly proper to use the word awaits, for that prosperity is already here and is daily increasing, as is seen on every hand in all parts of our great Territory. There is everything here to inspire the energetic man with confidence; for here in this far off region, this last jumping off place, this utmost verge of Uncle Sam's dominions, the most remote point from the great centres of American civilization, here nature has been particularly lavish in preparing for the hand of man all the elements of a great and prosperous commonwealth. With mines of unexampled richness and extent, from which the precious metals are now being exported in daily increasing quantities; with mines of all the metals used by man; with mountains of pure salt and other mountains of soda, lime, gypsum and all the substances used in the arts; with agricultural and grazing lands of vast extent and of the greatest fertility; then add to all this the finest climate on earth, where a man may select his own favorite temperature, from that of the coast of Maine to India, and it is now wonder that the people of Arizona feel that they inhabit a Territory which has been greatly favored by nature and which will soon become one of the greatest and most prosperous of States.

At last our commerce is beginning to tell. Only a very few years ago Arizona had nothing to send back in exchange for her large importations, except money, which was very hard to get, and which grew scarcer and harder to get every year. Money is still hard enough to get, but from what we read of the financial condition of other States and Territories we imagine that Arizona is as well off as any of them.

The C. S. N. Co's steamship Newbern, which sailed from the mouth of the Colorado for San Francisco, on the 15th of the present month, took 220 tons of freight, all of which was Arizona produce, shipped from this port, and consisted of bullion, ores, hides, pelts, wool, etc. Some may say that this is no great thing, but it shows that we are gaining ground. And it must be remembered that this was all shipped by the way of Yuma. We do not know the amount of the exports by wagons from the large bullion producing counties of Yavapai and Mohave, but we know that the amount is large and rapidly increasing. These exports are only Arizona's beginning, only the small ripple that precedes the mighty wave. Our imports are also increasing, owing to our increasing population.

The Newbern, on her last trip down, left San Francisco with 800 tons of freight, 300 of which she discharged at way ports, and brought 500 tons to the mouth of the river, which the river steamers brought up to Yuma, to supply this point and be distributed to the up river ports by steamers, and to the interior by prairie schooners. We are gaining ground.

Marine and Commercial.

MOVEMENTS OF THE C. S. N. CO'S STEAMERS

SAILED:

Oct. 21, from San Francisco—Steamship Montana, Capt. Douglass, for the mouth of the Colorado, via Mexican ports, with passengers and freight for Yuma.

TO ARRIVE:

Steamship Montana, Capt. Douglass, may be expected to arrive at the mouth of river about Nov. 4.

River steamers, connecting with the Montana, may be expected to arrive at Yuma about Nov. 7th or 8th.

UP THE RIVER.

Steamer Colorado, Capt. Mellon, and Gila, Capt. Poole are up the river and will probably be at Yuma when they come down.

INTERIOR SHIPMENTS:

James M. Barney has shipped during the week, to Florence, Tucson and other interior points, 132,067 pounds of government and citizen freight, by trains of Lord & Williams, Contreras, Amabisca, and Noriega and Perez.

David Neahr has shipped during the week, to Tucson and way points, 15,719 pounds of merchandise.

Wanted.

"A Christian young man from Maine, engaged in the wool growing business in Arizona, wishes to secure a Christian young man of intelligence and activity, as partner, with a capital of $5,000 or $6,000. He also wants a trusty Maine man or boy to take charge of a herd of sheep, and another to drive a team. Name and reference given at the office of the Maine Farmer, Augusta, Maine."

The above, as will be seen by the reader, is clipped from the advertising columns of the Maine Farmer, published in Augusta, Maine. We give it the benefit of an insertion in THE CITIZEN, so as to afford Christian young men in Arizona, with the necessary trifle of five or six thousand dollars capital, an even show.

Trade-mark Christian young men are rather scarce in this vicinity, but THE CITIZEN circulates somewhat at Prescott, where the desired breed does more generally abound, and the above may catch the eye of some one there with the necessary qualifications. No such are wanted. The editor of the Miner, since his late installation as a Church trustee, might fill the bill, especially if he has the requisite filthy lucre. And he ought to have lucra enough since his services in behalf of the census fraud scoundrels, and the lucra ought to be sufficiently filthy to suit even a Christian young man advertising for a stern-wheel Christian wool growing business. Or if this chance don't prove sufficiently tempting to the Miner saint he might call his friend Behan's attention to the offer. It is no particular interest of ours but we dislike to see good material going to waste and if the above advertiser is honest in his intentions and is looking for genuine copper-bottomed air tight compartment Christians, singly or in group, we would advise him to get Behan for a Christian partner and Butler for a Christian sheep herder and teamster.—Citizen.

THE graders on the Texas and Pacific Railroad are working on both sides of the Colorado from the point where the bridge will cross.

PHILADELPHIA.

The Centennial—Death of Hon. Charles E. DeLong.

PHILADELPHIA, October 26.—This was Ohio day at the Centennial grounds. Attendance and interest was only exceeded on the Pennsylvania day. Governor Hayes was present and made a very inspiring speech on state affairs. Hon. Charles E. DeLong, late U. S. Minister to Japan, died this morning of typhoid fever.

LONDON.

The European War—Probable Armistice—Terrible Suffering.

LONDON, October 26.—It is believed that on understanding will be reached on the question of an armistice between Turkey and Serbia great distress prevails in Montenegro. It is reported that eleven thousand refugees are dying of starvation in the mountains around Belgrade.

NEW YORK.

Political Hascallity.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The tribune says that continued investigation shows that preparation have been made for illegal registration and naturalization in this city on a large scale.

A PUBLIC meeting was held at the Court House in Yuma in the evening of October 20th, when the following ticket was nominated:

PEOPLE'S TICKET.

DAVID NEAHR,
H. E. LINDSEY.

A thoughtless small boy came into THE CITIZEN office the other day and asked us to lend him a small quantity of concentrated lye. As pure and truthful as we know ourselves to be, the suggestiveness of such a request made us wince a little and after the departure of the boy with his infernal lye, we dropped into a train of conjecture as to what would be the effect on the editors of the Miner, Enterprise or Sentinel if a frendish boy should suddenly appear in their respective offices and call for cold concentrated lye. Would not the request be a veritable hand writing on the wall to them in its retributive suggestiveness, or are they so callous that even such conscience traught work would fall unheeded on their ear on ears?—Citizen.

We respectfully suggest that it would be as well for our respected contemporary to leave the SENTINEL out of the above category. As to the other paper named, we have nothing to say. In regard to the concentrated lye (lie), if our friend of the Citizen recognizes "the hand writing on the wall, in its retributive suggestiveness," we have only to say, take heed and mind thy ways. If there is anything that the SENTINEL prides itself upon it is its scrupulous regard for the truth. We keep and use concentrated lye in the press room, but we do not admit lie into the sanctum.

We clip the following items from the Los Angeles Express:

The Anaheim Gazette says: "The story is told—we don't know how much credence to attach to it however—that an old Swede, who is chief engineer of a freight wagon plying between Anaheim and Santa Ana, has fallen heir to over a million of money by the death of some relative in the mountain fastnesses of Switzerland. Here's romance for yer."

The following are the terms of an agreement entered into by contract, made out in legal form, signed, sealed and delivered this morning: E. Brown agrees, that in case S. J. Tilden is elected President, in November, to wheel R. Cameron with a sack of flour on his knees, in a wheelbarrow, from the Court House to Lopez's store and back again. And R. Cameron agrees that in case R. B. Hayes is elected President, in November, he will perform the same office for E. Brown. Afterwards the flour will be sold at auction, the proceeds to be devoted to a benevolent society of this city.

We find the following in yesterday's San Bernardino Times: "A young man by the name of Glenn, while on a deer hunt up Lytle Creek a day or two since, met with quite an exciting adventure. Discovering a deer at some distance he tied his horse and endeavored to get within range. He had reached the trunk of a fallen tree, upon which he climbed, and was about to take aim, when happening to glance beneath him he perceived under the log a huge grizzly bear and two cubs. It did not take him long to get off that log, neither did he slacken his speed when he saw the bear in pursuit. Luckily, he reached his horse in safety and made his way out of that dangerous locality."
